Imad Mardnli

I have Lebanese roots. I spent the first years of my life in Lebanon. Because of the civil war, I fled to Germany in 1978 with my family. Following my school career, I completed an apprenticeship as a businessman for office communication and completed it with a Fachabitur. Then I signed up for four years as a time soldier at the Military Police, where I was trained and used as a bodyguard. After my time in the military, I worked inside and outside Germany as a bodyguard. I played theater early. In addition to my full-time jobs, I worked as a hobbyist stuntman for TV productions. Since 2014 I take professional acting lessons. Since my twelfth year, I have practiced martial arts like boxing or muay thai and owned the first dan (black belt) in taekwondo.
