Emma Jane was born in Munich and grew up in the area around Nuremberg. Her talent for imagination and acting already manifested itself during kindergarten where she used to encourage friends to stage plays telling a story she made up herself. At school she joined the theatre club and passed part of her A-Levels in Drama Performance. Having passed her degree she moved back to Munich where she trained as an actress at the Muenchen Film Akademie. Since the successful completion of her vocational training she already has worked in two feature films.
