Lena was born in Heidelberg in 1990, moved to the vicinity of Hamburg as a little girl and grew up there and near Liverpool (1998 - 2000). Lena quickly discovered her passion for acting and theatre during her time at Mostyn House School and in further acting classes at the Rudolf Steiner School Hamburg. As a teenager she took acting lessons at TASK, Children's and Youth Acting School in Hamburg and gathered her first experience during performances and in front of the camera.

After graduating from high school in 2009, Lena began her three-year acting training at the Bühnenstudio der darstellenden Künste in Hamburg straight away.

Always eager to master new challenges, Lena played the leadrole in the indiefilm Roulette and featured in other projects while completing her professional training. After receiving her diploma in 2012, she continued to work on various theatre projects, commercials and films.

Lena also gained her first work experience in directing and acting coaching by training and directing two plays, Lysistrata and Oliver Twist, at a Hamburg school.

Today the native Swabian lives and works in Hamburg.
