Petra Michelle Nérette was born in Heidelberg; shortly after her birth her family moved to Haiti, Port-au-Prince, where her father has his family background. She was raised in Haiti until she was six years old, and then moved back to Germany (Heppenheim). After her A Levels she went to Munich to realize her dream of becoming an actress. In addition to her degree in acting and dance, she also graduated in dance education. At first she worked as a dancer and was involved in projects with socially disadvantaged children. To improve her technique and her English she visited acting seminars in L.A. and London and gathered some shooting experience abroad. Her first short film „Ego Zombie“, with her in the lead role, was shown at different international festivals. Another movie she was part of could take home the golden Student Academy Award. Aside from several smaller roles, that followed thereafter, she was able to also book big international ad campaigns. Petra Michelle keeps improving her language skills and talents in order to work as an actress in the international market as well.
